

Ethnography and Education - Winter School

Ethnography unbound: Responding to late modernity's mobilities and challenges

This winter school invites applications from postgraduate students and early career researchers in the field of Education with an interest in broaden their perspective on social and educational problems and Ethnographic research.

There will be opportunities for participants to discuss their dissertation/research projects with fellows and receive comments from prominent scholars in the field.

Please find all further information on the website here.

