

Research on Arts Education - Winter School

Arts-based research: how do the artistic and the educational entangle?

This winter school invites applications from postgraduate students in the field of Arts Education with an interest in the issues of artistic research and in the mobilization of artistic practices/ methodologies in educational research.

There will be opportunities for students to discuss their dissertation projects with fellow doctoral candidates and receive comments from prominent scholars in the field.

Please find all further information on the website here.

