

Past Summer and Season Schools

EERA season schools bring together early career researchers and PhD students from a number of nations to share and discuss their research and experiences with experts within their own field of research, in order to further the professional development of emerging researchers. Several EERA networks conduct subject-specific season schools.

Below please find an overview of the past EERA Summer Schools and Network Season Schools.

Past EERA Summer Schools

EERA Summer Schools are Council-initiated, 5 day schools with a focus on general academic skills. EERA Summer Schools are co-organized with and co-financed by a university from one of EERA's 30-something member countries.

Read more

Past EERA NW 17. Histories of Education Summer Schools

EERA Network Summer Schools are initiated and organized by the network and usually run 2 to 3 days. The topic of the Summer School is specific to the network's focus.

Read more

Past Network Season Schools

EERA Network Summer Schools are initiated and organized by the network and usually run 2 to 3 days. The topic of the Summer School is specific to the network's focus.

Read more